Hello from the Editor

Welcome and thank you to those who sent in your news for this edition. Our accordionists have been busy around Australia and I find it exciting to read where they have been playing.

Adelaide has some exciting news...Paul Smith will appear in an SBS drama titled 'A Beginners Guide to Grief' and although it may be a small part...it still includes an ACCORDION! Well done Paul and I can't wait to watch it, see page 13 for details plus other Adelaide news.

Kids Corner features Alvin from Sydney. Thank you Alvin for writing to us and telling us all about your love of the accordion, we wish you all the best, see page 15. It would be lovely to read about young accordionists from other states so please send in your news.

Do you have an accordion to sell or willing to donate to a good cause? St Leo College Wahroonga has a music program teaching the Accordion. Vince Tavernese is the schools music teacher and you may remember him being part of the NSW Accordion Orchestra for many years and it is exciting that he is able to introduce our great instrument into the school. Contact details are on page 21.

The next edition will be December so please don't forget to jot down some notes and save the photos from your gigs and send them to me anytime in the next 3 months, you do not have to wait until December. Thank you and hope you enjoy this edition.

Kind Regards,

Cheryle

Presidents Report

Welcome to spring. With the change in season, folks are back out again and looking for ways to enjoy themselves and what better than to embrace the season and hunt yourself down a few Oktoberfest shows. Oktoberfest is on this year for the first time in a while and our members are looking forward to entertaining you all over Australia. You will find our accordion players in Bavarian restaurants to festivals all around. Stay tuned to our Facebook page for locations and gigs.

We are working hard here at the Accordion Society to deliver on our promise of providing more events for you to be involved in. We have recently applied to host a workshop at the 2023 National Folk Festival in Canberra. As we have discussed in the past, we are looking to extend our membership across Australia and in different states. We are working hard to increase the exposure of our amazing instrument, where better to do it than the National Folk Festival? We hope to see you all there.

I would like to personally thank Tanya Marx. I had the privilege of running some rehearsals with a group that Tanya recently set up called Funkordion with members between 4 and 15. Tanya and I have been working together to get these youngsters ready for their first concert. In this concert the ASA and Funkordion got to play together at the Ferragosto, an Italian festival held once a year in Five Dock. It is great to see the AATA and the ASA working together. With twenty-seven accordion players on stage, we entertained the crowd with your favorite Italian numbers. For almost all the Funkordion group it was their first time on stage and although somewhat daunting they enjoyed the experience immensely. I am looking forward to our next concert. If you have any students who would like to be involved in our Funkordion group, please let us know and we can send you some details.

As you can see, we do have a great deal of activities on at this time. We are also planning a teacher's workshop in Melbourne on November 6th this year. We are working with the New Zealand Accordion Association who will be sending some delegates over for this planning day. We have recently established a Trans-Tasman committee and have had our first meeting recently online with a great deal to talk about. In this planning day we will be discussing the various ways in which we engage with our students and how we work with pedagogical material available to us as teachers. We are looking at ways in which we can provide a public access library to help students and teachers to find teaching material. We are certainly looking forward to working with the NZAA on this. If anyone would like to attend or has something they would like discussed, please let us know.

Feel like playing. Then turn off the TV and let the good tunes roll

Love always

Benny

Another fabulous afternoon at Bucklands

Accordions Alfresco has played an annual concert at Bucklands Retirement Village in the Lower Blue Mountains for at least the last 10 years and maybe longer, but somehow this year's concert felt special. After all the on-again-off-again cancellations of live events through Covid it was just so nice to be there and playing together. We were down a few players, but we still had ten of us on stage. Quite a few friends and family members accompanied us. As usual Dawn, the organiser of the monthly Bucklands Village concerts had promoted the concert well and we had a good audience for the event.

We had prepared a varied program that seemed to hit the mark with the audience. Having realised how much the Buckland's audience seemed to enjoy singing we had brought along printed singalong books with the words of some Australian and Italian favourites. We started out with a singalong then had the lovely Glenny Grunfelder and Maria Worthington do a couple of numbers as a duet. Next came excellent solos by Finn McDermid, Alex Zhao and Benny Pattinson. We finished up the program with some other favourites and had our traditional afternoon tea and chat with the concert goers.

We got lots of great feedback, and as I was leaving the hall to go home, I overheard a guest of one of the residents say that she had just been to the 'most amazing concert' at Bucklands.

Dawn has already booked us in to go back in 2023.

Griffiths Salami Festa is back!

Well after two long years the Salami Festa in Griffith returned last month and what a great weekend was had by all who visited our unique city.

Friday evening the Yoogali Club was the place to be with entertainment from Sydney Band and comedians. On Saturday I was asked to entertain for an hour or so at the entrance of the venue for the arriving patrons.

Late Saturday morning and well into the afternoon, the judging of the salami took place from over 100 entrants. Throughout the afternoon several local and Melbourne bands played in the open air at Yoogali Oval with lots of food and drink stalls to kept a couple of thousand people entertained and fed.

So good to see the Peruzzi Family Angelo, John, Raymond on stage with Bruno leading with his favourite Italian tunes. Jamie his grandson was also on accordion, great to see young accordion players.

Saturday evening Casella Family Wines VIP dinner was held at Yenda. A big thank you to Jim Salvestro, Dr Jaya, Pat Sergi, Glen Starr for their input on the night and the singalong tunes, it was a wonderful evening.

Sunday the Marquee filled to the max for the announcement of the winning home made Salami with entertainment from our band Kactus and Friends.

The week of Salami Festa, Griffith had the pleasure to be introduced by Radio Italiana Adelaide 531 AM. Marco and Marisa relayed live many hours a day to the world as the week unfolded starting at our Visitor Centre Hub. Thank you for Broadcasting our wonderful week long activities in our city and big thanks to Mirella Guidolin for coordinating our events.

Ferragosto 2022

On Sunday, August 21st, the main road in Five Dock, Sydney was closed to traffic for the annual Ferragosto . This day was extra special because the local Italian community was celebrating the 25th Anniversary (having missed the last two years due to Covid).

It was also a special day for the Accordion Society of Australia (ASA). The Sydney-based 'Accordions Alfresco' joined with the newly formed 'Funkordion' group (taught by Tania Marx) to play as part of the entertainment.

On the stage there were 25 accordionists playing a selection of tunes, Italian and popular, conducted by Benny Pattinson, (ASA president). Fifteen of the accordionists were young children who were playing in their first ever concert.

The performance was warmly received by the audience. Many commented on the fact that they had never before seen so many accordions together!

Earlier in the day three of the Accordions Alfresco accompanied the 'Coro D'Abruzzo', a group of Italian singers who presented a program of songs from the region of Abruzzo, east of Rome. The choir members wore traditional costumes and were conducted by Lisa Genovese. The appreciative audience joined in with many of the songs, singing and clapping.

News from Adelaide

In April 2021 Yvonne and I performed as Heidi and Herman at the Barossa Vintage Festival, at Rehn Bier Tanunda. Afterwards a lady approached us and asked if I would be interested in filming a few scenes for a TV project. I thought nothing of it and gave her my card.

The lady was Anna Lindner, and sure enough I received a call in November, asking if I was still interested. Filming commenced in our nearby town of Hahndorf soon after.

The film crew was amazing - such a great bunch of creatives, but also very professional and skilled in getting Anna's vision onto film. Even though the movie is a dark comedy, the vibe of the film crew was a lot of fun. I was interested to see what it would turn out like, and now you can find out.

Watch "A Beginner's Guide To Grief" on SBS, it premiered on 4th September 2022 on Viceland and can now be seen at SBS on demand as a mini-series. I'm in the movie for only a few very short scenes as an extra ..but it does mean there is an accordion featured in an Australian film production! Woohoo!

It was quite emotional seeing the whole thing put together at the preview screening as I lost my own mother to pancreatic cancer a few years ago, and this dark comedy is about losing your parents to cancer.

Many people will be able to relate to the struggle of losing a loved one. Watch this and you may find yourself confused as to whether you should be laughing out loud, or feeling sad. But no matter how you feel after the show, if you pick up your accordion everything will be alright.

SNIPPETS, GOSSIP & NEWS

It's a Boy

On the 4th of July 2022, Amelia Granturco and Benjamin Marshall welcomed their son Julian Vincenzo Marshall.

Weighing in at just 3.29kg and 53.5cm, he has been settling into the very musical household very well.

Sending our congratulations and well wishes to Amelia and Ben and can't wait for everyone to meet Julian.

KIDS CORNER

Alvin from Sydney

Hello, my name is Alvin. I'm 10 years old. I love to play the accordion!

In the beginning I had a toy accordion which I liked a lot. When my Mum asked me, "Do you want to learn how to play?", I said, "Yes!"

Next, my Mum found the best accordion teacher - Tatjana Marx and I started to play when I was 6 years old. I love playing and learning with Tania. I wish we could travel to different countries to compete with other accordion players!

Recently, at my school, I played the accordion in the Talent Show and won! My best friend, Benjamin, plays the accordion, too, so we've joined the school band together.

In the future I hope to play with other great accordion players.

Alvin

(Our group, Funkordion, is going to play in an Italian festival, 'Ferragosta' in Five Dock, Sydney with Accordions Alfresco. This is the first time that we will be playing in a concert. We're all very excited!).

Did you know?

Monaco's Army is Smaller Than Its Military Orchestra

Monaco's army has just 82 soldiers. Its military orchestra has 85 musicians.

This makes Monaco the only country whose army is smaller than its military orchestra.

This is not surprising, though, seeing as its army has only been put on alert once throughout the country's history—when French President

Charles de Gaulle threatened to cut off Monaco's

electricity and water in 1962 if Monaco's Prince Rainier III did not impose an income tax to Monaco's residents. (Eventually, Rainier complied.)

Accordion Addictions Anonymous

On Thursday evening, 1st September, Benny Pattinson hosted a jam session for Accordion Addictions Anonymous at The Temperance Society, (bar and dine) Summer Hill. Three well known accordionists (Benny Pattinson, Julie Accordion Wisniewski and Stefan Sernek) joined by sax player Richelle Bootsie Booth for an evening of improvising, and outdoing each other on popular and blues, Cajun and Popular music with lots of laughter and fun had by all! Friends and colleagues were packed into the bar, thoroughly enjoying the fantastic session, full of admiration for these four talented musicians - a rare experience which is to be repeated soon. Stay tuned to our Facebook page for upcoming shows

With their music teacher Mr Tavernese a group of young accordionist performed and won their category.

Mr Tavernese has started a group of young and enthusiastic students to take up playing the accordion at school, at the moment there are more students wanting to learn the instrument than accordions available

If anyone has an accordion pre-used and is interested in selling or donating their loved accordion to the school it would be gratefully appreciated.

Grayson Masefield Performs with the Christchurch Symphony Orchestra

By Harley Jones

The Christchurch Symphony Orchestra (CSO) invited Grayson Masefield to join them for an interesting project earlier this year for a performance on Saturday 30th July. Azul by Golijov, (originally commissioned for Yo-Yo Ma and 'hyper-accordion'), was to be performed by the Christchurch Symphony Orchestra, in one of the 10 best acoustically designed Town Halls in the world - the recently refurbished Christchurch Town Hall.

The cellist from London, Matthew Barley, and Auckland accordionist Grayson Masefield, were joined by 2 local percussionists to form an obligato group. The score also called for a non-traditional seating arrangement of the Christchurch Symphony Orchestra to surround them.

Chief Conductor Benjamin Northey was delighted at the success of the sound the work created. The audience really appreciated the contemporary piece, giving the 30 minute work the longest and loudest applause of the evening.

Radio New Zealand recorded the performance, with this link to be available shortly. The New Zealand Accordion Association President, Treasurer, and Secretary attended along with members of the Canterbury Accordion Association.
